

Coupons & Employee Recognition

Name: _____ Hour: _____

Over the weekend you finished creating the samples of the recipes for Mr. Schuldt, the manager of the Happy Hamburger Hut. After school on Monday you go into the restaurant and ask the person at the cash register to see him.

After a few minutes he comes out and invites you into the office. You show him the samples and he likes them very much. He gets some money out of the drawer and hands you fifty dollars as promised. He asks you to email him the templates so he can create the rest of the posters.

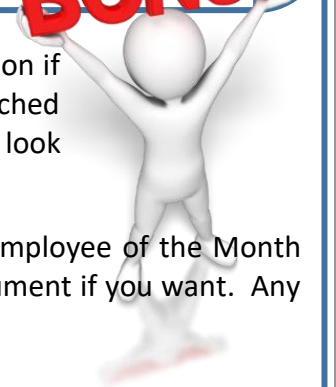

He then asks you if you would be interested in designing some coupons for him. He says he will pay you another $50 if he likes them as much as the recipe cards you just created. You accept the offer and tell him that you are busy at school and might not be able to get to them until next week. He tells you that school is more important than this, and to work on them sometime in the next few weeks.

He gives you copies of the old coupons and you head home to work on your homework.

- Layer a text box over a shape and rotate a text box over a shape.

Directions

BONUS

The following directions are part of a bonus assignment that you can work on if you wish. It simply needs to be done within the next week or so. The attached samples are simply samples. Use your own creativity skills to make them look nice.

Create a brand-new document and create two coupons and the Employee of the Month recognition certificate. You can put a background and border on the document if you want. Any margins are fine.

- Go to INSERT – SHAPES – and use the RECTANGLE tool to draw a box on the screen.
 - Make it whatever size you want. Put a background in it. Put a nice border on it.
- Go to INSERT – SHAPES – and use the TEXT BOX tool and draw a text box inside the shape you just created.
 - Make it whatever size you want and layer it over top of the text box. Use whatever fonts and sizes, Text Effects, etc., to make the text look nice.
- To rotate a text box, click on the box, and use the curved arrow icon to rotate the text box. Insert graphics (clipart or photos) as you see fit. Crop them and make them transparent if necessary.
- Use the Layer tool to layer everything in the correct order so everything is layered on top of everything properly.
